

Engefort adopts SE Suite for departments management and process integration

The ISO 9001:2000 certification process and the clear perception of the importance of using a tool for quality processes prompted Engefort Construction to choose SoftExpert Excellence Suite as the right solution for integrating the entire company, employees and departments, guaranteeing competitiveness and easy and secure access for data transmission. According to Gerson Fleming, Quality, Environment and Safety Coordinator, the possibility of customizing the solution to meet the specific needs of Engefort was considered a major differential offered by SoftExpert. "In addition to covering quality management, SE Suite also takes care of the management of all the company's areas while allowing us to perceive client needs," said Fleming.

Among the features offered by the corporate solution is the automating of business processes, cutting time and the costs associated with performing the activities considered essential to the business. Another differential indicated by Fleming was the integration between SE Suite and the ERP already used by the company. "The solution can be applied in different areas of the organization, allows for future expansions to other modules and offers different access levels for users - manager, support and searches," he said.
