Infarmasa Corporation reduces 70% of its paper use and printing costs with electronic document management

The search for improvements for the quality management system at the Infarmasa Corporation, one of Peru's largest pharmaceutical industries, was justified by its need to control the documentation related to the quality management system in terms of emission, revision, distribution, filing and validity. The company needed to streamline document processing, had excessive costs with paper, and also needed to increase the fluidity of communication on the status of the documentation.

The system allowed the Infarmasa Corporation to electronically manage the documentation that supports the ISO 9001 and Good Manufacturing Practice (BPM) quality certificates, approved by the Brazilian Ministry of Health Medication Head Office.

“ The document management system allowed us to save approximately 70% on paper and printing costs, as well as 5% in terms of the work hours of those people involved with the signing, photocopying and distribution of documents.
